Goodbye Winter. Can't say we're sorry to see the back of you, what with the wind and the rain and the flu; when all's said and done, there's only so much a warming glass of red wine will fix. However, we turn our gaze and our palates to the more benign months with a glowing shimmer of anticipation. It's reboot and refresh time, and what better way to kick things off than with a quick A-Z of things vinous for your general edification. From A for acidity to Z for Zinfandel, there's bound to be a little bit of something in there to intrigue and interest many of you.

What else? We feature Zephyr wines, the appropriately-named vehicle for the impressive winemaking skills of Ben Glover. A comprehensive list of beers from craft maestros, Bach Brewing, only three years old but already so weighted down with medals that we wonder how they can stay on their feet to brew their fantastic creations. An exciting new offering from Gisborne's Matawhero winery, the Irwin Chardonnay, is destined to become a New Zealand legend. Belvedere vodka - Polish know-how 600 years in the making. Finally! Wines for spring! The under-the-radar genius of Champagne Moutard. Our September Top10. And to round things off, a wonderful offering from Martinborough Vineyard: a limited edition case featuring a complete set of their superb Pinot Noir expressions from 2004 to 2010. Unmissable.

See you under the sun.

ALLAN SCOTT
CECILIA BRUT NV MAGNUM
$59.00 17453

One of the very first, back in 1975, to put a spade into stony Marlborough soils and plant grapevines, Allan Scott has over decades forged a reputation for exacting quality and gone on to establish a strongly family-oriented enterprise. The Scotts boast an impressive portfolio of sparkling wines, and this is a fitting testament to the meticulous care they take with them. The Chardonnay fruit provides elegance, the Pinot Noir depth in a silky and subtle sparkler with a smartly tart palate and a creamy mouthfeel. 1.5 litres for the deck - it's gotta be good.

BEN GLOVER

ZEPHYR

MARLBOROUGH'S BEST-KEPT SECRET

Zephyr takes its name from the prevailing winds that cast a healthy influence over Marlborough's unique ripening season. In 1985 Owen and Wendy Glover, the pair behind Zephyr, converted their farm at Dillons Point into a vineyard. Their initial plantings of Sauvignon Blanc, Pinot Noir, Chardonnay and Riesling remain largely unchanged. In the early 1990s, the exotic Gewürztraminer variety left a lasting impression on the Glovers, and as a result, Zephyr is these days known as an aromatic specialist. Sustainable Winegrowing New Zealand-accredited, this is indeed a family-run operation.

The driving force at Zephyr is Ben Glover, son of the above and one of the most talented and respected winemakers in the country. His stellar career includes senior winemaking roles for some massive Kiwi brands, as well as stints in California, Italy, Burgundy and Australia. He has over 15 years' experience as a national and international wine judge. These days, Ben is immersed in the family business. His passion is Marlborough and Pinot Noir, with Zephyr's single vineyard aromatic wines also taking a prominent role. About 85% of the Zephyr wines are exported to an enthusiastic and admiring global audience.

'If I had to choose just one Kiwi Sauvignon at the moment, it would be the harmonious, beautifully balanced Zephyr.'

TIM ATKIN MW THE OBSERVER

ZEPHYR MARLBOROUGH RIESLING 2016

$19.99 14757

Elegant length and searching acidity, with a hint of ripe graininess to the pure, clean flavours and lime-edged finish. Good for another 10 years.

ZEPHYR MARLBOROUGH GEWÜRZTRAMINER 2016

$19.99 14759

A subtle and restrained Gewürztraminer, fresh and delightfully textural, with lovely floral characters and a fragrant nose of musk and spice.

ZEPHYR MARLBOROUGH CHARDONNAY 2016

$27.99 14761

The balance is impeccable, an astute mix of flint, acidity and barrel ferment. Channeling wild yeast and a hands-off approach, it's taut and uninhibited.

ZEPHYR MARLBOROUGH PINOT NOIR 2015

$27.99 14760

Fruit from the southern valleys of Marlborough. Bright red cherries, a velvet mid-palate, texture and intrigue with the tannins and a long, lively finish.

ZEPHYR MARLBOROUGH MKIII SAUVIGNON BLANC 2015

$29.99 14756

A tribute to the classic Zephyr MKIII, of course. Whole bunch pressed, ancient oak barrels, feral ferment, no stirring, no sulphur. Complex fennel and melon flavours are accompanied by keen acid.

is for acidity

Acidity can play an important role in the vitality and general quality of a wine. The nature of the acidity can come from the growing location, though the level is generally from the variety itself, with some grapes naturally higher in acidity than others. Sauvignon Blanc, Riesling and Chenin Blanc are all high-acidity grape varieties. In the case of Riesling and Chenin Blanc, the acidity often interacts in an interesting way with the sweetness of the wine, the resulting tension and balance between the two elements part of the reason why these varieties age so well.

is for balance

A wine is considered to be balanced when its fruit, alcoholic strength, acidity, residual sugars and tannins complement each other, with no single component dominating the palate, the best wines exhibiting a seamless sense of harmony between all of their constituent components. In the vineyard, the balance of the vines themselves plays an important role in the production of fine wines. Achieving the ideal balance is a fine art with any wine, of course. Pinot Noir is particularly challenging in this respect, and the three examples featured below are paragons of poise. When it comes to perfect balance, they've nailed it.

is for chardonnay

Chardonnay has always been a versatile variety, the French with centuries of fine-tuning under their belts a decided influence of late. Yep, Chardonnay is officially cool again, whether it's opulent, lean or in between.

TONY BISH HAWKES BAY
SKEETFIELD VINEYARD CHARDONNAY 2016

$59.99 18071

100% Mendoza Chardonnay off a historic dry-farmed vineyard that Tony Bish knows intimately, this is bold, buttery, beautiful Hawkes Bay Chardonnay at its best. While decidedly overt in nature and displaying a lot of everything, with the Bish skills in play, nothing is overdone. Pop it in the cellar, it'll thank you for it.

is for dog

Low-cropped vines, hand-picked grapes and an organic regime hold sway at Dog Point Vineyard, where ex-Cloudy Bayers Ivan Sutherland and James Healy have produced their distinctive and highly rated collection of wines since 2004.

DOG POINT MARLBOROUGH
SAUVIGNON BLANC 2016

$22.99 18390

The Dog Pointers have always had their own distinctive slant on things, opting for the memorable over the mundane. An intense bouquet is embellished by hints of herb and mineral, the forward fruit flavours balanced by a swirl of citrus. Pungent and tropical, beautifully brisk and textural.

is for egg

The ancient Greco-Roman process of fermenting and maturing wine in egg-shaped ceramic vessels has come and gone over time. Lately, though, there has been a rekindling of interest in the use of concrete eggs. Why the egg? For some, the ovoid shape provides no edges and keeps the fine lees of the wine in suspension, with the resulting texture markedly different. For others, the fine oxidative process from the inert property of the concrete egg 'breathes' in a similar fashion to oak without the unwanted addition of wood-induced flavours. Check out the three exponents below.

is for flor

Flor is a veil of indigenous yeasts that grows spontaneously on the surface of wine and is particularly important in southern Spain's Andalucía wine region for the production of Manzanilla and Fino sherry styles. It grows naturally under certain conditions and appears randomly in some barrels. After fermentation, the flor develops and floats to the surface of the wine, forming an opaque, creamy-coloured film that imparts subtle nuances and protects the wine from oxidation. The resulting bone-dry sherries are packed with superb flavours, balance, weight and freshness.

A slight hint of sweetness to the pear and apple characters, some intriguing spice and mineral notes, but it's all about texture.

- 47028 GISSELBRECHT ALSACE PINOT GRIS 2016 $19.99

is for half

375ml half-bottles, that is. What's so good about them? Well, for starters, you're going to do away with a cupboard full of half-finished wines, aren't you. But no, seriously, when you're after just the one glass for you and a buddy, this is the way to go.

is for ice wine

Made from grapes frozen on the vine, Canada's ice wine artform walks a delicate line: the temperature must drop to minus 8 degrees, the fruit harvested at night to avoid the sun. With the lower yields involved, only small quantities can be produced.

INNISKILLIN NIAGARA PENINSULAR SPARKLING ICEWINE 2015

375ML $74.00 36005

Something of a luxury item owing to its miserly but ultra-concentrated fruit return and complicated balancing act with the icy temperatures, Inniskillin's sparkling ice wine displays an intense nose of honeyed nectarines and apricots, the delicate, lively effervescence dancing a tango with the sweet, refreshing fruit characters and the balancing acidity.

is for jurançon

One of France's original appellations, Jurançon is a wine region in the south-west of France, in the foothills of the Pyrenées, valued since the Middle Ages for its superb sweet white wines.

DAGUENEAU JURANÇON

500ML $199.00 42786

The Dagueneau name is one of France's most beloved and respected, thanks to the legendary, risk-taking Loire perfectionist, the late Didier Dagueneau. The white Petit Manseng grapes off 20-year-old vines deliver an extraordinary bouquet of honeyed apricot, peach, citrus and tropical notes. The opulent palate is sublimely elegant, with a delicate touch of balancing acidity.

The underlying acidity and fine tannins keep the wine fresh, and ensure that it will age beautifully in the bottle for a further 8-10 years.

is for loire

The Loire Valley is a treasure trove of white expressions, from the smoky, mineral-tinged Sancerre and aromatic, steely-flavoured Pouilly-Fumé to the magnificent Chenin Blancs of Vouvray that range from austere to opulent.

is for malolactic

Malolactic fermentation is a form of secondary fermentation that follows the main alcoholic fermentation, a biochemical process that converts the hard malic acid (think Granny Smith apple) into the more subtle lactic acid found in milk and butter. In Maçon, the rounded, bready, voluptuous character to the Chardonnay tends to come from malo and lees stirring rather than oak maturation. Te Koko demonstrates what happens to the acidity in Sauvignon Blanc when you put it through malo, while the Serge Mathieu is a traditional style of champagne that has undergone the process.

is for sweet

Sweet wines can attain their sweetness via extended time on the vine (late harvest) or by removal of water to concentrate the sugars, i.e. air-drying the grapes (Italian passito wines), freezing water out of the grapes (ice wine) or using botrytis to desiccate the grapes (Sauternes, Tokaji).

CHÂTEAU SUDUIRAUT SAUTERNES

375ML $24.99 44420

CASE OF 6 $22.99 A BOTTLE

Castelnau de Suduiraut is the second wine of Sauternes sultans, Château Suduiraut. Rich aromatic notes of spicy mandarin, apricot and butterscotch herald an opulent, creamy palate that is artfully balanced by a deliciously subtle acidity. Treat yourself.

is for tannin

Tannin is derived from the skins, pips and stalks. During the long, slow maceration of red grapes, the fermenting juice is subjected to contact with the skins that leaches tannin and colour. A natural preservative, tannin is also extracted during barrel maturation, delivering structure and backbone and providing a vital component in red wines intended for aging. Cabernet Sauvignon is one of the world's most tannin-dominant varieties. The wines below exhibit different qualities to their tannins, based on whether the Cabernet has been blended and where it was grown; i.e. under the Australian sun or within Bordeaux' maritime influences.

is for unoaked

To oak or not to oak is one of many choices the winemaker has to make in the pursuit of distinctive a flavour profile. Standardly fermented in stainless steel, the philosophy behind producing unoaked wine is to allow the fruit flavours to shine through unobscured by the influence of wood. Unoaked whites are characterised by bright aromatics, pure fruit flavours, and a mouth-watering crispness. Unoaked red wines, often blended, display fruit-driven flavours along with an enhanced, unobscured sense of origin. Unoaked wines are typically exuberant, lighter-bodied styles made to be enjoyed while still relatively young.

is for volcanic

Nestled into the slopes of Sicily's Mt Etna, Terrazze dell'Etna has a distinctive mineral aspect to its wines. The indigenous red variety is Nerello Mascalese, its wines generally light in colour with vibrant acidity. The terraces were established in the 1800s, with current owner, Nino Bevilacqua, purchasing the property in 2006. Everything is done by hand, with no irrigation other than what drains down off the mountain itself. Thanks to the harsh volcanic ground, the viculturalist needs to cut the roots of the sometimes century-old vines to stop them growing sideways.

BACH BREWING

COASTING TO GLORY

The caravan on the beach. The tractor pulling a dingy. It all just makes you want to pop one open and dig your feet in the sand. Bach Brewing was born of a combined love of quality beer and the New Zealand coastline. Owner Craig Cooper had bought shares in the Limburg Brewery and created some recognized brews, but ultimately put the project on ice until 2013, when he returned to New Zealand with his family to bring Bach Brewing out of hibernation. Since then, Cooper and crew have been consistently turning out a bunch of great beers. Within no more than a few years, Bach has gone on to establish itself as a top-quality brewing enterprise.

From the refreshing levity of the Beachstone Pilsner to the brooding depth of the Crayporter, there's a little something for everyone. Some of the Bach beers are good hearted, true to style brews, while others get crafty with hop-loaded or specialty styles. Summer is coming... eventually; so now's as good a time as any to get familiar with the range. It might not be tog-time yet, but that doesn't mean you can't have a Bach.

CHAMPAGNE MOUTARD

FRANÇOIS MOUTARD

The Moutard-Diligent family can trace their history of viticulture as far back as 1642, but it was not until the 1920s that they began producing champagne under their own name. Today, under the stewardship of François, Veronique and Agnes Moutard, the estate consists of 22.5 hectares of vines in the Côte des Bar region of southern Champagne.

The origins of the vineyard go back to Gallo-Roman times. Along with Pinot Noir, Pinot Meunier and Chardonnay, the family is one of the few to still nurture the permitted Arbane, Petit Meslier and Pinot Blanc grapes, instilling these almost forgotten varieties with a new lease of life. Moutard produce a full range of champagnes, including the unique Cuvée des 6 Cépages, made from six different varieties, the only one of its kind. The non-vintage wines are all aged for at least three years, the vintage and prestige champagnes for ten to fifteen.

Both Moutard's rosé and Grande Cuvée non-vintage bottlings are produced from 100% Pinot Noir, with additional complexity achieved through the use of older reserve stocks. The Grande Cuvée is a standout wine, its seductive bouquet of peaches and pears underpinned by touches of almond and brioche. Wonderfully fresh, with creamy textures and an elegant sign-off, it's an ideal aperitif, but has the weight for food as well. Soaked on its skins, the rosé is a benchmark of the genre, the nose complex, the rich and creamy flavours of strawberry and blackcurrant overlaid with a superb smoky, textural quality.

While Moutard may lack the fame of some of the other marques, their softly-textured wines are nonetheless very impressive, and flying somewhat under the radar, they offer exceptional value.
